Victim in stable condition at Hancock Medical

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

A Friday night shooting in the Springwood Park area ended in the arrest of two suspects and a victim being transported to Hancock Medical Center for treatment, Sheriff Steve Garber reports.

Thomas Albert Lepley, 24, and Larry B. Lepley, 61, both of 9217 Queensland St., Springwood Park, have been charged with one count each of aggravated assault, in connection with the shooting," Investigator Tom Roan said Saturday.

Roan continued, "At 9:15 p.m. Friday evening, several deputies responded to the Queensland address in response to a shooting. I was summoned to the scene."

"Upon arriving, I found that Steve Henry, 37, of the same address, had gunshot wounds to his abdomen and was transported by American Medical Response to Hancock Medical Center for treatment," Roan added.

Apparently earlier there was a verbal confrontation between the Lepleys and Henry prior to the shooting, Roan said, adding, "It seems that Henry rented a

An out-of-court settlement in the annexation tug-of-war between Bay St. Louis and Waveland remains a very viable option, Bay Mayor Eddie Favre says. Others, however, aren't so sure.

"Oh yes, absolutely," Favre said Thursday when asked if a compromise is still possible. "...Compromise is the best solution for financial reasons and for other reasons. We need to look at what's best, not only for the two cities but also for the people who live in those areas. We must not lose sight of that."

Students will be required to adhere to Hancock Schools dress code policy

Students in the Hancock County School District WILL be required to adhere to the School Dress Code for the 2004-2005 school year.

Opt-out procedure for dress code policy

The Hancock County School District ("District") has adopted its mandatory student Dress Code Policy ("Policy") for all District students. It is the mission of the Policy to promote a more effective climate for learning with fewer discipline referrals; to improve safety and security; to foster school unity and pride; to reduce status competition; and to ensure that appropriate attire be worn by all students of the District. The purpose of this Opt-out Procedure is to provide student(s) of the District that prove a "bona fide" religious or philosophical objection(s) to the Policy an opportunity to apply for an exemption to the Policy. Student(s) that are granted an exemption from the Policy must reapply for exempt status each school year.

Step One:

1. A student who desires to apply for an exemption to the Policy shall request an Application for Exemption and Questionnaire ("Application") from their school administrator, or his/her designee.

2. The student shall return their completed Application, with any supporting documentation attached thereto, to their school administrator, or his/her designee. The school administrator, or his/her designee, shall immediately forward the student's application materials to the Office of the Superintendent, directed to the attention of the Board Secretary for the Board of Trustees of the Hancock County School District ("Board").

3. At the Board's next regularly scheduled meeting, the Board shall review the student's Application, and any supporting documents submitted therewith, in relation to the student's "bona fide" religious or philosophical objection to the Policy.

4. Within seven (7) days of the Board meeting, the Board Secretary shall transmit the Board's decision to the parents/guardians of the applicant student.

5. If the Board determines that the student's "bona fide" religious or philosophical objection does not qualify for exemption from the Policy the student may appeal the decision pursuant to Step Two of this procedure.

Step Two:

1. Within seven (7) days of receipt of transmission of denial of application from the Board Secretary to the parents/guardians of a student applying for exemption from the Policy, the parents/guardians may appeal the denial to the Board. Said notice of appeal shall be transmitted to the Office of the Superintendent, directed to the attention of the Board Secretary within said seven (7) day period.

2. At the Board's next regularly scheduled meeting, the parents/guardians of the student applying for exemption shall meet with the Board, in Executive Session, to review the student's Application, and any supporting documents submitted therewith, to review the student's notice of appeal and to discuss the student's "bona fide" religious or philosophical objection to the Policy.

3. Within seven (7) days of the meeting with the parents/guardians, the Board shall determine if the student's "bona fide" religious or philosophical objection to the Policy qualifies the student for exemption from Policy.

The Board Secretary shall transmit, within said time, their decision to the parents/guardians of the applicant student. Said decision shall be final and binding on the student for the remainder of the scholastic year during which such application was made.

Child Development center celebrates family

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Parents, children staff and volunteers from the Hancock County Child Development Center gathered at Buccaneer Park on Friday for the "grand finale" of the center's year long theme of Celebrating Families.

The event was designed to give the children what they need the most, time with parents, said Executive Director for Hancock County Human Resources Agency Lora Mederos. Parents were encouraged to participate in the activities with their children and in activities of their own.

Among the activities offered were bingo, tug of war, face painting, space walk, story telling, family photos, finger printing, a hula hoop contest and a Jell-O dunk. Children were also allowed free time to play on playground equipment and to just run around being kids. Volunteers prepared lunch on the grill during the non-stop activities.

Throughout this past year activities have centered around the theme of family, Mederos said. Each month a different family was featured with pictures and activities geared to emphasize the importance of spending time with your children.

The Center was opened in 1977 and serves working parents who fall below what is considered median income levels according to state statistics. The center is open to children between the ages of 1 yr. and 5 yrs. It is funded through a federal child care partnership grant. The Center maintains an ongoing open enrollment throughout the year, but Mederos said there is usually a waiting list. Parents are encouraged to enroll their three to five year olds in the Head Start Program, if this is possible, to allow more spaces at the Center, Mederos said.

The Center operates from 7 a.m. to 5:15 p.m., Monday-Friday, all year round and is licensed to accommodate 42 children.

"We like to keep a low child to staff ratio," Mederos said. "For example in the toddler program the ratio is generally five children to one staff, where in many programs the ratio would be seven to one."

The Center strives to provide a safe, stimulating, learning environment that focuses on the emotional, social, physical, and intellectual development of each child, said Mederos.

Each teacher follows a lesson plan each day, taking children through various learning, or interest centers. The themes may vary from household skills, to art, to music and movement activities. Children are offered outside activities each day weather permitting, of course. Breakfast, lunch and an afternoon snack are provided. For more contact program Director Sallie West at 228-467-8050.

Support Hancock's WWII Memorial

One of Hancock County's most important Memorials is well underway, and it will be dedicated to those whole called Hancock County home and served during World War II.

It is the brain child of Bay St. Louis resident Leo Seal, Jr., who recently received permission for such a World War II Memorial to be constructed on the grounds of the Hancock County Courthouse. The memorial is for people who lived in, or called Hancock County home, during that era.

Seal said the dedication several months ago of the World War II Memorial in Washington, D.C. was the big inspiration to have one here in Hancock.

The Memorial Committee consists of: Leo Seal, Jr., Col. Randolph Bourgeois, Ron Daricek, Richard Johnson, John Ladner and Bill Taylor.

Thus far, more than 1,400 names have been gathered from the Hancock County Courthouse, Camp Shelby, and The Sea Coast Echo in addition to other sources.

When one thinks there were over 1,400 Hancock County men and women to serve in the Armed Forces during World War II, that was a large chunk of the county's population. The 1940 census gave Hancock only a few more than 11,000 residents.

In today's Echo, a list of names has been compiled of those who served our country from Hancock County from September, 3, 1939 to September, 2, 1945.

It is realized there must be more records which could not be found, in addition some names, or nick names may not be correct.

One of the areas, it was hard to find information on was the Merchant Marines. So far, committee members have been able to gather only five names. Those names are published at the end of the list and Seal feels there are many more then just five.

The final design will be determined after a review of several architectural sketches has been completed. The names will be listed alphabetically in 3/4 inch letters, illuminated at night, with a gold star opposite the names of those who gave their lives in the conflict.

The committee has been very busy collecting the names, and I personally know that Bill Taylor, American Legion Post 139 commander, has spent a lot of time on this special project.

If, in checking the list, you discover a name which is incorrect, or has been left off, send the branch of service and dates of service to the committee.

Mail to: Bill Taylor, 448 St. Charles St., Bay St. Louis, MS 39520, or to one of the other committee members.

America must be united and committed

Charles Lindbergh, fight against terrorists on all fronts, despite domestic politics.

From the Senate
By U.S. Sen. Trent Lott

He didn't like President Roosevelt too much, either. However, once America was attacked by the Axis, Lindbergh dropped the rhetoric and volunteered to serve, as did many others with reservations about our specific strategy and political leaders, but who understood evil when they saw it unleashed and knew it must be defeated. If anything, the 9/11 Commission Report tells us to do the same, imploring that America remains united and committed to the Above all, this bipartisan report specifically calls upon Congress and the Administration to embark in an effort to improve America's security with better intelligence, and to fully support all methods of combating terrorism - from diplomacy to our troops in the field. Some of you probably are saying unity, even in the face of a clear threat, is impossible for an America now divided in the midst of an election year and drama of political conventions. But America can do it, just as we did in Lindbergh's day. We must resist short-sighted, politically-motivated efforts to diminish the terrorist threat, which are proceeding in the name of politics. We've got to take terrorist threats seriously 24/7, political season or not. If we fail to fully appreciate the danger, our country is going to pay another terrible price for our inattention, probably much worse than 9/11.

The 9/11 Commission report showcases stunning failures in our intelligence community prior to the 9/11 attacks which, as a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, I'm working to fix in three ways: First, by having our dozen or more intelligence agencies report to a single, cabinet-level officer - a director of national intelligence who'll demand more accountability. Second we must recruit more skilled people to our intelligence apparatus who can get on-the-ground intelligence worldwide.

Finally, we must have a better system of classifying and declassifying documents. Right now, the system is too inconsistent, and even Senators and Congressmen can't get good information about what our intelligence services are doing and how the system could be improved.

Both parties have tried to play the blame game with the report, as are various government agencies and the Congress. The media isn't without blemish either; they've engaged in some of the same tactics, cherry picking parts of the report while dismissing other sections to promote editorial agendas. Let's not forget the report's totality and its purpose. The report studies the mistakes of our past but appeals for us to look forward. Let's face it. We all failed to see 9/11 coming. Neither President Clinton nor President Bush saw it. With a faux sense of security, both parties in the Senate and House watered down our intelligence agencies for years, leaving us too dependent on spy satellites and deficient of trained, human intelligence professionals who know languages, cultures and can infiltrate enemy nations and terrorist organizations. We can't let any of this happen again. With terrorists threatening to detonate

Alice Moseley will be sorely missed

On Friday, July 9, 2004, I told my daughter I was going to call Miss Alice L. Moseley. When the phone picked up, I heard her voice and I thought "Great, great great."

Then a male voice picked up and it was her son, Mr. Tim Moseley. Then I learned the news. I told Mr. Moseley I was sorry.

Miss Alice L. Moseley was an inspiring woman to everyone. She did great and wonderful things for our community. Miss Moseley helped the churches, businesses and children's programs. She was a great teacher in all fields.

Miss Moseley was a wonderful icon for our community.

She did wonderful things for the 'Save Our Children' program, by teaching the kids to be productive students and to stay in a regular classroom.

She gave pointers and advice. Miss Moseley donated artistic cards, readings and things to encourage all of us.

I shall always remember our visits to the Stennis Welcome Center for tourists.

As long as I live I shall never forget her kindness and anyone who knew her will share the same gratitude.

To Mr. Tim Moseley and family, I will show the same love as I did for her.

May God bless them with love and prayers.

Jessica Sibley Upshaw, a graduate of University of Ms in Accounting in 1981 and Law School in 1984, was recently given a certificate of appreciation for her presentation at a recent VFW Post 2880 meeting by Commander Russell Mayeur.

Ms. Upshaw is the State Legislative Representative for District 95 and will be a state delegate to the 2004 Republican National Convention. She discussed her first (freshman) year in the Legislature and many of the trials and tribulations she faced. She stated that she was disappointed many times in the way that the House worked but was pleased when her fellow members performed in a non partisan manner and passed meaningful bills such as the tort reform one.

A normal session consists of about 90 days but this past year they have so far worked 125 regular session days and have had two special sessions called by Governor Barbour and will probably have one more. For each of these special sessions the Governor sent to each legislator a proclamation that includes limits on the topics to be

She had promised in her campaign to push Tort Reform, Voter ID and Campaign Finance Reform. The Tort Reform bill was passed in the first special session but a compromise on the Voter ID and Campaign Finance Reform could not be made. However, she promised to keep trying. Freshman legislators normally do not have the opportunity to present bills on the floor. It usually takes about four years to be granted this honor.

The extension would provide for greater boater safety, planners say.

Approximately 1,000 cubic yards of riprap will be used to construct the 11 foot high jetty with a crest width of 15 feet and a base width of 30 feet. About 3,000 sq. feet of sandy bay bottom will be affected by the jetty structure. The structure will provide about 1,800 sq. feet of hard substrate habitat for aquatic organisms.

nuclear weapons and chemical weapons in America, the stakes are just too high. We've got to unravel their plots abroad before they are played out here in America again.

Of course, these three things aren't the only remedies needed, but the report clearly shows they'd be a good start. If anything, this bipartisan report on the 9/11 terrorist attacks shows that even three years since the attacks the need for unity in the face of a clear and terrible threat supercedes the place of rhetoric. Fighting terrorists must remain America's number one priority for all of America until the evil of this century is defeated, just as it was in the last.

The Tim Neely Hancock County Classic Dixie Angels World Series continues through this Thursday at the BSL Athletic Complex.

World Series here until Thursday

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Tim Neely Hancock County Classic Dixie Angels World Series kicked off in high style Friday with a Mardi Gras-style parade and opening ceremonies honoring the late Neely, who was instrumental in the Dixie League.

Those competing in the Hancock County Classic include 9 and 10-year-old girls from 11 states and the Bay St. Louis All-star team. It is a double elimination tournament with games scheduled through Thursday.

Visiting teams are from Pleasant Grove, Ala.; Lake Hamilton, Ark.; Perry Junior League, Ga.; West Pasco, Fla.; Ward Ten, La.; South Stanley, N.C.;

Mauldin, S.C.; Carthage, Ms.; Summer Town, Tenn.; YWCA Paris & Lamar County, Tex.; Halifax American, Va. The host team is the Bay Dixie Softball League.

The tournament will be played on fields 5 and 6 at the Bay St. Louis Sports Complex.

Games for today, Sunday are scheduled to begin at 4 p.m.; Monday at 5:30 p.m.; Tuesday, 6:30 p.m.; Wednesday, 6 p.m.; and Thursday, times to be set.

Admission to the World Series is: Adults, $5 per day, students, $3; or tournament passes, adult, $20, students, $12. Children five years old and under will be admitted free.

Lunches and dinners will be furnished daily at the Bay St. Louis Sports Complex for teams and coaches, tournament director Lonnie Falgout said.

"We have received tremendous support from local restaurants who will be supplying the food for the players and coaches," he said. There has been much more community support this year than there was when the Dixie Pony Tails Softball World Series was held here.

"This year we have much more support and more volunteers, which is very good. We can still use a few more volunteers, hours, days, or for the week."

Falgout can be reached at 216-0133, or the city at 467-9092.

National media picks Georgia to win SEC

HOOVER, Ala. (AP)—Georgia was a lopsided pick to beat defending national champion LSU for the Southeastern Conference championship this season. It will be a rematch from the Tigers' 34-13 championship game win last year but this time there will be a different outcome, according to league media at the SEC media days Thursday.

Forget the SEC. South Carolina coach Lou Holtz predicts tongue-in-cheek that the Bulldogs "will be one of the better teams in the NFL." Georgia easily outdistanced LSU, getting picked as league champion on 61 of the 88 ballots.

Florida was the only other team to get multiple votes with five.

SSC's Faranda signs with Loyola University

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II Staff Writer

St. Stanislaus senior forward Mario Faranda recently signed a full student-athletic scholarship with Loyola University of New Orleans to play basketball.

The 6-5 1/2, 215lb power forward graduated from St. Stanislaus in May 2004 after leading the Rock-a-chaws to three consecutive trips to the Class 4A state basketball tournament and a three-year record of 89-23. Faranda averaged 14.5 points, 9.0 rebounds and 2.0 blocks during his senior campaign.

St. Stanislaus head coach Jay Ladner commented, "Mario played on some very good teams during his time here and excelled on the court; however, he also excelled off the court. While he led our team on the court, Mario achieved outstanding grades in the classroom and participated in numerous extracurricular activities. It shows the measure of his character being able to balance a strong work ethic on the court and strong discipline in his studies off the court. It is also a feather in the cap of our program when we have a young man of Mario's caliber be able to continue his basketball on the next level. It is that much more impressive to be able to do that with a school such as Loyola University where excellence is expected in all aspects of student life."

Loyola competes in the Gulf Coast Athletic Conference against schools like Xavier University, Springhill College, Dillard University, and William Carey College.

Mike Giorlando, head coach at Loyola University, stated, "Mario Faranda is a very gifted and outstanding young man. He has outstanding academic skills and shows a tremendous upside with his basketball skills. We know the type of student and player he is coming from St. Stanislaus and Jay Ladner's program. Knowing what Jay Ladner expects on and off the court, this was a tremendous sign for Loyola basketball. What we are getting with Mario Faranda is an outstanding student who has shown great discipline in the classroom. Athletically, we are looking at four great years from him on the court."

Loyola University reinstated their student-athletic scholarships with this upcoming season. Both the men and women's basketball teams each received three student-athletic scholarships.

Giorlando continued, "We are going to play Mario at power forward during his time here at Loyola. With his ability to score and rebound, we want him to be around the basket as much as possible. However, he also has the ability to go outside with his skills."

Giorlando comes to Loyola University after a three-year stint at LSU as an assistant coach under John Brady. He was a head coach in the high school ranks in New Orleans at Archbishop Hannan, Archbishop Shaw, and St. Martin's Episcopal prior to his run at LSU.

Faranda was out of the country at press time playing international basketball with the junior national team in Italy. He has played in Italy for the past two summers.

Annexation -- what's next?

recent closed meeting between the governing bodies of both cities. It was the second such meeting within two weeks, and adjourned without agreement of when, or if, the two would meet to negotiate further.

All parties, all individuals, are still hoping to work out a compromise," said Favre. "Hopefully, there will be more (joint) meetings."

Meanwhile, Favre revealed that he has been pursuing a compromise with Waveland for about a year, in various discussions with Waveland Mayor Tommy Longo and attorneys involved in the case.

Both cities filed annexation lawsuits a year ago, seeking to expand their municipal boundaries along Highway 603 between Highway 90 and Interstate 10. The sought-after territories overlap in some critically important spots, as both municipalities want to add solid tax base potential to their boundaries.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars in consulting and legal fees could be on the table if the case goes to a two-week trial, followed by an almost certain appeal by the losing side.

Aside from the contest between the municipalities, a Fight Annexation Committee has formed among residents opposed to being added to either jurisdiction.

Committee chair Joanna Spicuzza did not respond when asked Thursday whether her group has hired an attorney.

Her following had vowed to fight the cities' annexation attempts. Lynn Bell, president of Garden Isles Community Association, said her group belongs to Spicuzza's committee too, but is only concerned with opposing the Bay's annexation attempt. "We look forward to... pointing out the issues we're concerned with from a homeowners' standpoint," said Bell on Thursday.

Bell said she wasn't certain whether the Fight Annexation Committee has retained counsel yet.

After the initial flurry of public attention to the annexation drives last summer, the court cases have proceeded largely out of view while the litigants prepare for the Chancery Court trial in November.

With the case marching toward its most costly phase, the Bay's Ward 2 council member James Thriffliey III spearheaded the effort to have both cities sit down at a negotiating table behind closed doors, in the unincorporated area, and without the presence of attorneys, consultants or the mayors themselves.

The legality of such executive sessions was cleared in advance by the State Attorney General's office.

Jerry L. Mills, the Bay's annexation attorney, said Thursday that he'd suggested the Bay council negotiate with Waveland's Board of Aldermen in an effort to avert a costly trial. Mills said it's "good stewardship" on the parts of both cities to try to settle the matter outside of court.

Since settlement discussions are not admissible in court, there's no harm done legally to give it a try, he said. The outcome of litigation, he said, "is always uncertain and expensive," he said. Settlement talks are an attempt to avoid that uncertainty and expense, he added.

If the negotiations fail, he said, "I'm assuming we'll go forward, full speed" in court.

The first negotiating session was characterized as jovial and congenial. Favre, renowned for his cooking skills, prepared supper for the gathering at Compton's Engineering on Longfellow Road, and then left.

After that meeting, Thriffliey said he was enthusiastic over the chances of a successful settlement, which he apparently expected would congeal during the second session. It didn't.

"I was hoping we'd be finished and to the voting stage, get it all done... put it behind us and save us a bundle of money," Thriffliey said after the second meeting which was held last Tuesday evening. Both mayors were on hand for the Tuesday meeting.

Ward 4 council member Bobby Compretta, who's serving as president of City Council, said last week's meeting certainly produced less than hoped for. "I was very disappointed in the results of that second meeting, because the first meeting was so positive. I'm still optimistic a compromise can be made, I hate to pay so much money to attorneys and consultants."

Asked if the situation amounted to a "stalemate," Compretta noted that a third meeting hasn't been scheduled. "But I'm hopeful. We all shook hands when we left. We didn't agree on anything, but we're all friends."

At-large council member Bill Taylor is doubtful a compromise is going to develop before trial. "I just don't think we can agree," Taylor said. "People in Waveland have their idea of what they want, and people in Bay St. Louis have their idea of what they want."

He said a recent television broadcast that purported an agreement has been reached was "totally inaccurate."

The talks, he said, have bogged down. "I think it's to the point where it's going to court."

Hancock Chancery Clerk Tim Kellar had accepted city officials' request to serve as moderator of last Tuesday's meeting. He convened the session by stressing that he's entirely neutral, and doesn't live or vote in either city.

"Let's talk and see where we can go," Kellar said as he opened the meeting Tuesday. "Hopefully let's get it on the table and pull it all together."

Kellar said it would be "sad" to see the cities spend so much money on annexation cases, without first trying to negotiate a settlement. Kellar said Thursday he'd had "mixed feelings" about assuming the role of moderator, and has taken some political criticism for doing so.

"Some folks thought I had no interest being involved in that." But, he added, "I was just trying to get both sides to talk... at the same table."

Kellar, a countywide elected official, said the Tuesday session was "a friendly meeting where both Bay St. Louis and Waveland's points were presented by elected officials."

Thriffliey said it's likely that both cities' governing bodies will discuss the status of the annexation talks separately this week.

One obstacle to reaching a quick conclusion, he said, is that "the longer it goes, the more people who are involved." After each meeting, he said, the elected officials then hear from, "friends, advisors, attorneys, consultants, neighbors and constituents."

And while he termed that process a "healthy situation," he added, the longer it goes the more it costs. "Every minute of delay, that meter's running."

Prendergast receives NFA training

Public Safety Officer and third in the command line of the Bay Saint Louis Fire Department, Louis Prendergast recently returned from two days of intensive incident command study at the National Fire Academy. Prendergast was one of 65 Mississippi firefighters attending the school with their counterparts from Indiana.

Held on Emmitsburg, Pennsylvania campus of the National Emergency Training Center, Prendergast began his military-like days with classroom instruction, following by intensive tabletop drills, taught by national incident command professionals. This group was part of the new pilot program developed following the 9/11 attacks tasked to make the program work or point out the problem teaching areas.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency was established in 1979 and its mission is to focus Federal effort on preparedness, mitigation, response and recovery from emergencies, both natural and manmade. FEMA's National Emergency Training Center includes the United States Fire Academy, its National Fire Academy and the Emergency Management Institute.

The Incident Command School training received by Prendergast is designed to meet the needs of fire officers and manager with responsibilities to use, deploy, implement, and/or function within an incident command system. The programs addressed the need for incident management systems, an overview of the structure and expandable nature of ICS, an understanding of the command skills needed by departmental officers to use ICS guidelines effectively and scenario practice on how to apply ICS.

When asked if Bay Saint Louis was equipped to handle a major disaster, such as one of the scenario's which involved an overturned 6,000-gallon tanker carrying acrolein, Prendergast gave a resounding, "YES!" "We have the North American Emergency Response Guidebook to determine the substance involved and an excellent working relationship with the city's police and public works departments, American Medical Response, Hancock Medical and, of course, with the supporters of our mutual aid agreement for fire services," he responded.

Working in groups of six firefighters each scenario established Command, which developed the short and long term strategy and overall coordination. The person with this initial responsibility would be Captain of the Day, until he might be relieved of duty by a higher ranking officer.

The Command Staff would perform safety, liaison and information activities required to support the Incident Command and operating forces of this incident. Because of the small size of the Bay Saint Louis Department, these duties would traditionally fall to the shift lieutenant.

Following the NFA Incident Command strategy the third assignment would be to make tactical assignments within the initial strategic goals, resource needs, staging area and specialized resource needs. The planning stage would include gathering information, including situation data, tracking resources, provide two or more tactical options for Incident Command, collect documents needed for the incident, and obtain information on getting technical advisors.

And finally, but not least, is logistics, where to shift would be divided into two branches, service and support with each branch determining the needs and actions of its branch in support of the resources operating at the incident. Finance/Administration would be established to maintain records that may be required to document expenses for cost recovery and to serve as the information clearing house. "In Bay Saint Louis we would depend on our city clerk and department of administration to assist with this area of incident command," said Prendergast.

Prendergast continued, "This was my first time to attend the National Fire Academy and hope I will have many more opportunities to learn from these highly charged professional firefighters."

I'm very proud of Louie's professional growth since his recent promotion. It was gratifying to hear him comment on our department's preparedness, in firefighting training and equipment, to handle any of the major incident scenario's he studied. We owe our department excellence to the Mayor and Council who always support our training efforts and the firefighters who dedicated themselves to the daily tasks of being prepared and on-call 24/7," said Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie.

MPT receives $6 million technology contract

Mississippi Polymer Technologies, Inc. (MPT), a high performance materials company, announced that it has received a $6 million contract under Title III of the Defense Production Act. The Title III R&D contract will support advanced development of MPT's Parmax® Self-Reinforced Polymer (SRP) technology. Under the contract, MPT will increase production capacity of Parmax® SRP materials for both military and commercial applications.

Title III of the Defense Production Act supports the development of domestic production sources for materials considered to be important for Defense. MPT already has demonstrated the utility of Parmax® SRP materials for a wide variety of weapons systems, aircraft, and naval vessel applications. As a result, the U.S. Department of Defense has decided to assist MPT in developing an efficient process and facilities for producing Parmax® SRP resins. The long-term goal is to build Parmax® SRP production capability as well as both commercial and military markets for Parmax® SRP resins. Title III funds will directly support growth of MPT's core business for both Defense and civilian uses.

Parmax® SRPs are a family of revolutionary new plastic materials that can replace metals and composites without added fiber reinforcement. Parmax® SRPs exhibit extraordinary mechanical properties, corrosion and scratch resistance, hardness, and cryogenic properties, yet can be fabricated and machined using conventional automated methods. The new materials will find widespread use first as extruded and compression molded stock shapes; structural foams; films; and coatings for aerospace, defense, electronic and specialty industrial applications. MPT's technology is protected by fifty-two patents dealing with the composition, production, and use of Parmax® SRP materials. MPT is developing strategic collaborations with other companies to develop and market high value-added Parmax® SRP products. ## Board approves sell of gaming license in Illinois

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Gaming Board has approved a plan that allows the bankrupt Emerald Casinos Inc. to sell its license to Isle of Capri Casinos Inc.

The board's decision Wednesday has removed a major hurdle for a casino in suburban Rosemont, despite opposition from state Attorney General Lisa Madigan.

The Gaming Board still must investigate whether Isle of Capri is suitable to run an Illinois casino before a license is approved.

The dispute between Madigan and the board began in March, when it chose Isle of Capri from three finalists vying to buy Emerald's license.

The Mississippi-based company, which bid $518 million for the state's 10th license, was selected over Harrah's Entertainment Inc., which bid $520 million to build in Waukegan, and Midwest Gaming and Entertainment LLC, which bid $476 to build in Des Plaines.

The board's staff had rated the Isle of Capri project last.

"This is another step in the process," said Les McMackin III, vice president of marketing for Biloxi-based Isle of Capri. "We look forward to moving past all this and submitting our application to the Illinois Gaming Board."

Isle of Capri, which bid $518 million for Illinois' 10th license, was selected over Harrah's Entertainment Inc., which bid $520 million to build in Waukegan, and Midwest Gaming and Entertainment LLC, which bid $476 to build in Des Plaines.

The board's staff had rated the Isle of Capri project last. Isle of Capri officials said their bid was the choice of Rothschild Inc., an investment banking firm that was hired to analyze the gaming license bids.

Tim Hinkley, Isle of Capri's chief operating officer, has said Rothschild selected his casino company because its proposal would generate the most tax dollars for Illinois.

MISSISSIPPI
 STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH
www.msdh.state.ms.us

Other than the memorial at the Bay American Legion home for those "Killed in Action", there has never been a fitting memorial, honoring the hundreds of Hancock County Veterans who served our armed forces during that great struggle.

A committee has been formed and plans are underway to have one constructed at the courthouse in the near future.

The final design will be determined after a review of several architectural sketches has been completed. Tentative plans call for a covered pavilion, easily accessible, illuminated at night, with each of the individuals from our county who served listed alphabetically in 1/4 inch letters, with a gold star opposite the names of those who gave their lives.

The memorial will include those who served in the U.S. Army, Army Air Corps, Army National Guard, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and the U.S. Merchant Marines. It will also honor all women who served in the various female branches of the services, including WAC (Women's Army Corps), WAVES (Women's U.S. Naval Reserves), Lady Marine Corps, SPARS (Women's Coast Guard Reserves), WASP (Women's Air Force Service Pilots), as well as the U.S. Army and Navy Nurse Corps.

Although the AXIS powers of Japan had already invaded China, and Italy had begun aggression in Africa, World War II was not designated as such until Germany marched into Poland in September 1939.

Simultaneously, Great Britain, France, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, and South Africa joined Poland in declaring war against the AXIS powers, and hostilities did not end until Japan formally surrendered to the Allied armies in September 1945.

Hence, all of the individuals who served in the various branches of service that lived in, or called, Hancock County "home" during that era, will be included on the walls of the memorial.

Elsewhere in today's edition are the names of some 1,500 WWII service personnel meeting these criteria. The committee, however, needs our help to review the roster and notify us of any corrections, and especially provide us with names we have inadvertently failed to list. Those changes, corrections, and additions should be sent to:

Bill Taylor
448 Saint Charles Street
Bay St. Louis, MS 39520

(or to any of the committee members:
Leo W. Seal, Jr., Col. Randolph C.
Bourgeois, Ron Daricek, Richard Johnson and John Ladner).

Please list dates of military or maritime service, the branch of service, and your name, address and telephone number should additional information be needed.

HONOR ROLL WORLD WAR II

You Can Help Check List of WWII Veterans

This page lists the men and women from Hancock County that served in World War II and is the basis for the proposed memorial.

We ask - YOU, the public - to check it for accuracy and advise us if there are additions, corrections, or some who did not serve.

The roster includes men that served in Army, Army Air Corps, Army National Guard, Coast Guard, Marine Corps, Navy and U.S. Merchant Marines; plus ladies who were in WACS (Women's Army Corps), WAVES (Navy); SPARS (Coast Guard); Women's Marine Corps; WASP (Women's Air Force Service Pilots; as well as U.S. Army and Navy Nurse Corps.

The person must have been a resident or considered Hancock County their "home address" between September 3, 1939 and September 2, 1945, which was the official period designated as World War II.

Southern Miss marine science professor's work published in Acoustical Society of America 75th Anniversary edition

Southern Miss marine science professor Dr. Ralph Goodman was recently published in the 75th anniversary book for the Acoustical Society of America.

Goodman, who specializes in underwater acoustics, wrote "A Brief History of Underwater Acoustics" for the Committee on Archives and History of the Acoustical Society of America.

"Professor Goodman's chapter shows how the thread of the history of our field weaves through two world wars and the Cold War of the 20th century," wrote Dr. Peter H. Dahl, chair of the Technical Committee on Underwater Acoustics.

Goodman said he was honored to contribute to the important milestone publication.

"No field of acoustics was more affected by world events or played as important a role in their outcome as the science of underwater acoustics," Goodman said. "To trace the development of the science, it is important to understand how nations' goals directed research."

The Southern Miss Department of Marine Science is strategically located at Stennis Space Center in Hancock County, Miss., home to the world's largest population of oceanographers and hydrographers. The department offers both master's and doctoral degrees in marine science and a master's degree in hydrographic science.

Newspapers In Education is a program in which newspapers supplement traditional teaching materials in the classroom. N.I.E. programs are provided to local schools through paid sponsorship programs.

Newspapers In Education programs teach with the newspaper. Students learn to become critical thinkers through reading, analyzing and discussing newspaper stories and editorials. They use the knowledge they gain to engage in conversations with peers and family members.

If you would like to be an NIE SPONSOR or if you are a teacher and would like to use the Echo's N.I.E. program in your classroom you may contact RITA BREUN, N.I.E. coordinator at THE SEA COAST ECHO 467-5474.

Maintaining Your Dignity

The principal danger of arguing with fools is that we are more likely to sink to their level than to raise them up to ours. Likewise, it can be extremely difficult to deal with those who hate us without ending up in a seething cauldron of hatred ourselves. Can you be honest with those who lie to you? Can you trust those who don't trust you? Rudyard Kipling's edifying poem "If" inspires us to believe that, "If you can keep your head when all about you are losing theirs and blaming it on you; If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you... Or, being lied about, don't deal in lies, or being hated, don't give way to hating... Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it." Surely this may be a bit of an overstatement, but the man or woman who can resist hating those who hate them and losing their head when others are doing just that has surely gained a measure of self-mastery worth emulating. So, the next time a fool or a scoundrel tries to pull you down to their level, consider it best to hold your tongue and safeguard your heart.

Answer not a fool according to his folly, lest you be like him yourself.

AREA DEVOTIONAL &amp; DIRECTORY PAGES

Our Children are our most urgent priority

Sitting on the passenger side of a car parked near a bus stop, I noticed a very young man who seemed to recognize me, but his signals were ambiguous. Finally, he jumped up and came to the car, launching into a furious barrage of questions about our children.

"I recognize you from that recent NAACP gathering. What can we do about changing the desperate condition of our children? Nothing seems to be working. Where do we begin? Where do we turn? What resources can we use to rear our children properly?"

"Well, we all know where the roots of the problems lie," I returned. "For one thing, we so-called adults can eliminate the childishness which we are witnessing in several members of the New Orleans School Board. These alleged adults claim to have the well-being of our children in mind, but they are just fighting the superintendent."

I knew that was the hottest piece of bait I could throw him, and, true to form, he was very quick to rise to the bait, take it and run with it hook, line and sinker.

"You're right! It's just a glorified power struggle in which our children are the losers."

The School Board has allowed $20 million or more to be lost, abused or squandered on their watch while the school campuses are rotting and rusting. Yet, the rotting schools are nothing compared to the majority of our students who cannot read or do math."

Before I could make a rejoinder, the young man turned with a quick good-bye and a flying leap as he hailed a bus which was just pulling up. And so he was on his way to wherever with a head full of frustration, anger and urgent questions about our children.

Come to think of it, why would we not allow a superintendent with a stellar record of reform in three other shipwrecked schools strut his expertise in this new venue without the constant sniping of small-minded, jealous, envious, power-hungry, bored members?

Naturally, none of us are under the illusion that our community problems begin with the School Board; for the School Board is only the third gear. The first gear is none other than the family, the cradle of everything in our bodies, minds, emotions and souls.

It is no accident that parents/guardians are universally recognized as the first teachers in our lives, for so indeed they are. That is very good when parents are well-balanced, mature, educated adults who are God-fearing and cling to the highest values in life.

Unfortunately, that is very bad when parents are immature, poorly educated, socially maladjusted, lacking in perennial values, and not anchored in God. This condition of blight is apparently the plight of at least a majority of black and some other families.

So, where in the family do we begin? With a crash course in the four Rs, of course: reading, writing, arithmetic and religion. That is, the parents/guardians need to get the first dose of the four Rs which they in turn will be able to share with the children.

Somewhere in the midst of this crash course in the four Rs, the parents/guardians will likewise need a crash course in parenting, soon to be followed by a continuing-education course in parenting. This crash course series is both key and major as the absolute bottom line component of any sweeping, efficient solution to the problems of our children.

Fifty years ago, the black family was about 76 percent nuclear in that both father and mother were there. Today, that figure has eroded to less than a third with the visible results of sporting dysfunctional children birthed in and reared in dysfunctional families.

Pouring out en masse from defective families, children equipped with ignorance, lack of values, poor social graces, an unsteady religious base, and woefully deficient study habits invade our schools, perpetuating mediocrity and failure by their dead weight.

Massive resources must be poured into our school system, although we know from black-and-white figures that it is not merely a matter of money. For instance, schools around the country had to return an unused $1.9 billion to the U.S. Department of Education. Of course, that also indicates laziness in using resources at hand.

Since the family is the first gear and education is the third gear, it must be stated that religion is the second gear, even though there is a very real sense in which we cannot and should not place one before the other. African culture, for instance, dating back tens of thousands of years, has always kept culture, religion, education and social life together.

A healthy fear of God is obviously missing from the young thugs who kill wantonly with the vacant eyes of a shark or Bengal tiger. Psalm 111:10 tells it truly: "The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom." We see no evidence in them of basic faith in God.

How can we cut off the well-springs of this godless cult of violence? According to the Catholic-sponsored Renewing the Mind of the Media Campaign, "3,500 academic studies have shown a positive link between media violence and real-world violent behavior." Our average 14-year-old has seen over 100,000 acts of TV violence.

"So what?" you ask. Well a very recent survey informs us that riveting movies rev up our amorous and/or other body chemicals to the point where we exit the theater ready for action relative to the theme of the movie.

In other words, we are deeply moved by music, drama and gangsta rap lyrics separately and, apparently, much more when taken together.

With 56 percent of our 13- to 17-year-olds glued to TV sets in their bedrooms, and with boom boxes and Walkmans all over the place, the chemical reactions in the survey are surely turning over repeatedly, albeit often unbeknownst to the unsuspecting victims.

But we live in denial of this, saying that any prohibitions violate the first Amendment.

Two recent incidents of death over dominoes, and one death over chess within the span of three weeks underscore the culture of violence and death in which we live. Still, we live in denial, clinging to the same best-of-both-worlds syndrome which many people display so gluttonously in the pursuit of the pleasures of eating and drinking.

Reflections on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, STD

Scripture Says...

By Ed Young

Leave God in your life

Is there anything that man can't do? Man has excelled in the science of medicine, and in astronomy; the study of the heavens. Man has been able to engineer massive constructions of buildings, bridges, highways, dams and huge ocean liners. Medical scientists have discovered ways of treating terrible diseases using human embryos. They even want to try to re-create humans by cloning them.

Every three years knowledge doubles, nothing seems impossible. Every thing from the ancient wheel to space travel; even the planets are now within mankind's reach. Gen. 11:1-4. However, humans have a way of destroying themselves. Mankind has recorded its futile attempts to do things without the Almighty. The Bible tells us that one civilization after another has fallen when its leaders leave out God. In fact, these once-upon-a-time nations began to fail when families started leaving God out of it. Divorce became commonplace, and fornication and adultery made its place in the household. Gen. 11:1-9.

When governments leave the precepts and laws of God out of their governing, then the concept of law has no absolutes and eventually government fails.

Worshipping Almighty God and His Son in these modern days is an antiquated practice to many people, and they see the Scriptures as old fashioned and outdated. But God is watching America, and I'm sure He is thinking, "America, you are no longer a Christian nation. You have forsaken me for sins of the flesh and the love of money."

Look for Him to come soon and bring His Church home with Him. In the twinkling of an eye it will be gone. 2 Thessalonians, 2 chapter, verse 1.

Following Jesus Christ

Would you prefer to be at the mercy of harsh, impersonal, forces over which you have no control? Or would you rather be in the hands of a loving, benevolent, caring God? The answer seems plain.

Even so, many people cannot stand the idea of the all-knowing God telling them the best way to handle their lives. So they opt for cold, unfounded chance. But there is another side to the story. Jesus exclaims, "You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor, and hate your enemy.' But I say to you, love your enemies, and pray for those who persecute you in order that you may be sons of your Father who is in heaven; for He causes His sun to rise on the evil and the good, and sends rain on the righteous and the unrighteous" (Matthew 5:43-45). Jesus gives the best possible reason to be benevolent to others around us. We are to reflect the love of God. God brings the blessing of sunshine. What a terrible thing it would be to live in perpetual darkness. We would not survive for very long. God also brings the blessing of rain. Sometimes we think we have too much or too little. But we are at God's mercy. Isn't it much better to be able to go to a loving Father and seek his face when we think there is too much rain or not enough? If God does not exist, we live in a universe controlled by emotionless chaotic forces. And there is no place to turn. It is every man and woman for himself. That's an ugly, intolerable world. I'm thankful that is not the world in which we live. We live in a world controlled by the most benevolent Master conceivable, the living God. Let's follow Jesus Christ in learning the love of the Father.

Bam on the Beach II with Alden & Emeril

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Join internationally known Chef Emeril Lagasse and his wife Alden for a summer evening celebrating the local flavors of the Gulf South on Saturday, Aug. 28, 6-10 p.m. at the Grand Casino Event Center in Gulfport. "BAM on the Beach II" is a wine and food experience featuring a cooking demonstration by Chef Emeril, entertainment by Doc Gibbs & Picante, and cuisine from Emeril's Restaurant, NOLA, Emeril's Delmonico and many other coast and regional fine restaurants.

"BAM on the Beach will not only be a one-of-a-kind culinary event with incredible food, wine and great music - it will also be an amazing way to support kids in our community, raising money for the performing arts center," says Emeril Lagasse. "My wife, Alden and I believe that the more creative and fun things you have for kids to do, the better for the community as a whole. We look forward to making the performing arts center a reality."

General admission tickets are $125 each. Patron tickets that include reserved seats begin at $600 for two people. Corporate sponsor levels beginning at $3,000 include reserved seats to BAM on the Beach II and tickets to an exclusive "Private Party with Emeril" that is scheduled earlier in the evening. The event is for adults only.

"Only Emeril Lagasse could bring in 1000+ eager guests on a sultry August evening in Mississippi to raise more than $200,000 for BAM on the Beach last year," says Betsy Grant, Director of the Lynn Meadows Discovery Center. "We have limited the number of BAM II tickets to 800 to ensure the comfort of our guests, and with Emeril and Alden as our hosts, I know the evening will be memorable!"

Alden and Emeril Lagasse launched a $2 mil-

Moving is a nice prospect for Amy Davidson.

The young actress' home isn't relocating, but her TV series is: The ABC sitcom "8 Simple Rules" is shifting from Tuesdays to Fridays for the upcoming season, and repeats of last year's episodes already are being shown there to get viewers accustomed to the change.

Davidson is going into her third year as Kerry Hennessy, the most studious member of a family moving forward after the death of its patriarch (the late John Ritter). Along with her siblings (Kaley Cuoco, Martin Spanjers) and her mother (Katey Sagal), she has welcomed two other relatives (James Garner, David Spade) to the household.

"One thing I love about playing Kerry," Davidson reflects, "is that I can have serious moments, those adolescent problems. I don't know specifically what's cooking for next season, but I know more stories like that will come up. They're telling us that each character will have an awesome individual story."

"The way last season ended, everyone went on an individual journey. Kerry went to Europe; Bridget (Cuoco) went to Washington, D.C.; and Jim, C.J. and Rory (Garner, Spade, Spanjers) drove to Florida. Everybody's sure to come back with different experiences under their belts."

Davidson surely will: She has just filmed her first lead role in a TV movie. She stars with Betty White and Richard Thomas in the forthcoming Hallmark Channel film "Annie's Point," and she says getting away from her series role has been "so much fun. In the film, my character's mother died several years ago, and she's just coming into her own. So is Kerry on the show, so I guess there are some similarities between them.

Born: Sept. 15, 1979, in Phoenix.
Marital status: Single.
TV work: "8 Simple Rules," "So Little Time," "The Truth About Jane," "Judging Amy."

Getting started: Davidson was a member of the dance company Dance Motion, with which she performed in productions and competed in national competitions until she finished high school - when she followed the advice of an acting coach and moved to Hollywood.

Hobbies: Running, weight training, hiking, boxing, snow skiing, dance, voice training.

On her series character's perpetual dilemma: "She's still the middle child and she still feels like she doesn't get enough attention, and I think that will carry through the entire run of the show. That's just a middle-child thing."

It's not hard to understand why Victoria Gotti decided to do "Growing Up Gotti," the new A&E Network reality series that presents, in the style of MTV's "The Osbournes," an inside peek at her private life, starting Monday, Aug. 2.

The daughter of "Dandy Don" John Gotti, who died in 2002 while serving a life sentence for murder and racketeering, certainly knows what it means to grow up in the public eye, scrutinized by spectators who automatically make a series of assumptions even before they meet her.

"People hear my last name and all kinds of things come into their minds," the 38-year-old Gotti says to a new acquaintance in the first episode. "They could be intimidated. They could get anxiety-ridden."

Her world, Gotti insists, is nothing like "The Sopranos," the HBO mob hit "oops," make that "success," that has only reinforced many preconceptions about her. Although she says her daily routine is pretty mundane, "Growing Up Gotti" catches its main subject at a pivotal time in her life and shows the busy Gotti as she tries to juggle her responsibilities as the divorced mom of three teenage sons with her duties as editor-in-chief of the new magazine Red Carpet, as well as her somewhat wary desire to begin dating again.

Monday's premiere finds Gotti and her three headstrong sons in a very tense mode. The boys aren't happy that Mom wants to sell their Long Island mansion where their father, Carmine Agnello, used to make a home with them, and they're even more upset that their mother is ready to wade back into the dating pool.

Gotti herself stands firm with them, but her resolve is a little shaken after a matchmaker sets her up with a bald 58-year-old who has a penchant for such inappropriate remarks that Gotti walks out on their dinner date.

"I'll give you a thousand dollars if you take him to a ditch somewhere and roll him out," she tells the chauffeur after she gets back home. "I'm serious. Really."

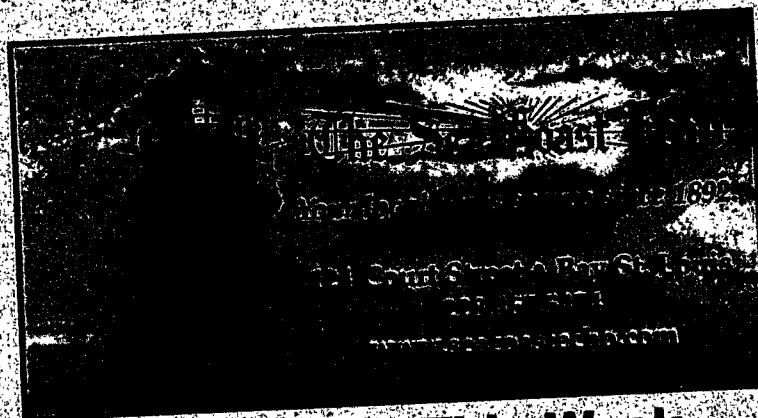

Nope. Nothing like "The Sopranos" here, that's for sure.

On Sunday, Aug. 1, the reality series "American Candidate," with host Monte Williams, begins its 10-episode search for a fresh political voice. After stutle starts at HBO (as "Candidate '2012") and FX, Cutler took "American Candidate" to Showtime, with whom he had done the reality series "Freshman Diaries." This sort of switch is nothing new for Cutler, who saw Fox quickly cancel his high-school vetre series "American High," which then found a successful home at PBS.

The idea of American "Caravans" was to encourage American citizens to fill out applications and make video tapes in hopes of being selected as part of the final group of 10 candidates. Changes made along the way opened the contest to immigrants as well as native-born citizens, and lowered the age to 18 from 35 (the legal minimum for most presidential candidates).

Many applicants heard about the show by finding listings for it on the Internet, or by word of mouth. The producers found others by reaching out to political organizations or seeking recommendations. But, says Culler, "one got a free pass onto the show, and that includes candidate Chris

"I've read that there's been suggestions that some of the people on the show didn't go through the full application process, it's entirely untrue. Everybody who's on the show filled out applications, everybody did their videotape."

Along the way, potential candidates were listed on the show's Web site and participants were encouraged to create their own Web sites of their own. The online response figured into the final choices, Cutler says, but was never intended to be the deciding factor.

"It would be silly to cast a show based on how many clicks somebody got on the Internet," Cutler says. "Every step of the way, I've defined our diversity objectives in terms of gender, socioeconomic background, educational background, geography, ideology. You can't rely on an entirely unscientific vote. And wouldn't be fair. What about people who don't have access to the Internet?"

In the end, Cutler and his fellow producers chose the final 10, which included Democrat Keith Boykin, 38; the Green Party's Bruce Friedrich, 34; Democrat Gephardt, 31; Republican Pat Gribble, 38; Independent Mike Lazus, 38; Libertarian Richard Mack, 51; Libertarian Joyce Riley, 55; Republican Strock, 47; Independent Bob Vanderbyl, 45; and Democrat Lisa Witter, 31.

These finalists then set out across the country, learning firsthand about campaigning, polling, strategizing, creating a media image, crafting a message—the things that real candidates have to do, with one exception. They never raise campaign funds.

"We took fund-raising out," Cuccinelli says, "because we wanted to ensure a level playing field, and we wondered, 'What would happen if you took money out of it?' Everybody always says, 'If only money were taken out of politics, it would be a pure process.'"

Montel Williams hosts "American Candidate," a new unscripted series that endeavors to find one contestant who could run for president, debuting Sunday on Showtime.

Each week, the candidates face challenges, with the two bottom finishers squaring off in an elimination debate moderated by Williams, after which the remaining candidates vote one person off. At the end, the public decides the final winner in a phone-in vote. The last participant standing becomes the "American Candidate," winning $200,000 and, following the end of the series, a nationwide media appearance. The winners address the nation.

"You've got to have some finality in weeks," Williams says. "In the end, it culminates in a national election. But if candidates look at me as if I'm the Grim Reaper, because every time I appear I come with a task for them to do, or I come telling them which I have to face off in a debate."

Q Is Jonathan Antin of Bravo's "Blow Out" series related to, or the same person as, the Steve Antin I remember seeing in a movie called "The Last American Virgin"? If not, the resemblance is remarkable. -Kathy from Atlanta.

A Nice catch! A publicist for the Bravo show confirms that Jonathan and Steve are brothers. The family also includes brother Neil, who is a producer and director, and sister Robin, who is a choreographer and founder of The Physical Drills, a dance troupe.

Q I'm a fan of "Wings" on Nick at Nite. In the establishment shooting, is the airport terminal called Tom Nevers Field or the show a set or is it an actual airport in Nantucket? -Steve Fazio, St. Petersburg, Fla.

Q ■ As a child in the '70s, I watched a program starring Burgess Meredith and

Tony Franciosa. All I remember is that Meredith watched his agents carry out missions on a big screen. What was the title? Bill in Hemlock, Mich.

A—That was "Search," an NBC adventure series starring ■ Franciosa as Nick Blanton, one of three agents who reported to Cameron (Meredith), their boss at the Probe Division of World Securities. The other agents were played by Hugh O'Brian and Doug McClure, retaining the star spot with Franciosa from week to week.

This high tech (for its time) agency fielded operatives around the world on a variety of assignments that usually had a political element to them. TR show ran a single season (1972-73).

BMX rider Mirra looks back as X Games turns X ... er, 10

By George Dickie

© Zap2it

There was a time not long ago when the X Games wasn't the Mecca of action sports events that it is today.

The year was 1995, and what was then known as the Extreme Games was held in Newport, Providence and Middletown, R.I., and Mount Snow, Vt. Nearly 200,000 spectators turned out over eight days to watch athletes compete in 27 events in nine sport categories, including bungee jumping, street luge and skysurfing.

Not everyone was sure what the games were about, why ESPN was involved or even if the event would be repeated. But the athletes were certain of one thing: They had a lot of fun.

"You know, at the first year, for sure, I think a lot of people were kind of questioning the objectives of why ESPN wanted to air our sport," says Dave Mirra, the legendary freestyle BMX rider who will be in Los Angeles to compete in the 10th annual X Games, which airs Thursday through Sunday, Aug. 5-8, on ABC and ESPN. "A lot of us thought probably the wrong way: 'Ah, they're just in it for the money or whatever.' Then again, that was the wrong attitude."

"Coming into the '96 season, I realized, 'Man, this is going to be around for a while. I'm going to take it seriously.' And that's when I kind of just said, 'You know what? If it doesn't last, (so be it). But if it does, let's take it seriously and look to the long-term goal - achievements.'"

To say that he has achieved is to state the obvious. Mirra, a resident of Greenville, N.C., is the most decorated athlete in action sports history, winning more X Games gold medals (12) than anyone else. He owns 16 medals overall in his X Games career, and is credited with being the first rider ever to pull a double back flip in competition. He has been voted Freestyler of the Year by BMX Magazine in 1999, won BMX Rider of the Year at the inaugural ESPN Action Sports & Music Awards in 2001, and was named NORA Cup Rider of the Year in 2003.

The X Games have grown right along with Mirra. From its inauspicious beginnings in New England, the games have morphed into a world-class event that attracts over 150 athletes to compete in aggressive in-line skate, bike stunt, moto X, skateboarding, surfing and wakeboarding. For the first time this year, it has drawn live coverage on ABC and ESPN. The prize money has grown over the years as well, from $2,500 for a first-place finish in '95 to $25,000 this year.

That ratchets up the pressure on the athletes, says Mirra, who recalls a very casual atmosphere among the athletes in 1995. "We didn't know how to take it," he says, "so we just said, 'Hey, it's another contest.' It wasn't like, obviously, as calculated as we do a lot of the other events now. It was just kind of like, 'Hey, go out and just ride and have a good time.' No pressure kind of thing. And now, you know, the stakes are high, there's a lot riding on it. The athletes are thinking the same way you are. You know, they want to win. Back then, it was like, 'Hey, let's just go out and ride and we'll see what happens.'"

"The money back then wasn't enough to really live-off if you won a contest," Mirra continues. "So it was like, 'Hey, have fun with it.' But now the contest prize money is through the roof, so you have huge potential. If you win a main event, that's a lot of money."

"I got second (in 1995)," Mirra recalls. "I got $1,000 for that. Back then, it was a lot because my cost of living, obviously, was way cheaper. But just the fact that I got $1,000 back then was insane."

How would he like to see the X Games progress over the next decade? "I think it's on the right track right now," Mirra says. "Most importantly, athletes are having a good time and progressing, and people are watching it and they're loving what they see. I think that all goes hand in hand, and I just love to see it continue to go on the path it's on right now."

For his part, the 30-year-old Mirra has no plans to retire from competitive riding in the foreseeable future. But when he does, he knows how he wants to be remembered. "I definitely want to be remembered for what I gave back and what I contributed to competitive riding," he says. "And that there was my time and there was my era where winning was definitely the main goal and you can't always win. But I just want to know that I made a mark in the history of the X Games, for streaks, as far as the five-year streak in street (riding), or just all the gold medals, that I was definitely a tough competitor at one point."

A tough competitor, yes, but one who rode to have fun. "You know, I'm competitive with myself, for sure," he says.

"But I don't ride to win. I ride to ride my best, and if winning is what happens, then that's awesome. And to say, 'Yeah, hope for golds,' that'll be cool to get a couple, but I'm not sitting at home going, 'Please get a gold medal. Please, come on.' It's just go ride your best, and try not to analyze it too much. And most importantly, have fun with it."

PBS documentary, concert delve into Olympic spirit

By John Crook

© Zap2it

If recent Olympic scandals have you fantasizing about the glorious purity of the original Olympic Games in ancient Greece, think again.

To a modern viewer, those Games would seem like horrifying mayhem, according to "The Real Olympics," a two-part documentary premiering Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 3-4, on PBS.

Originally made for British television, the presentation uses re-enactments and on-camera commentary by expert historians to paint an eyebrow-raising portrait of those early Olympics, which the Greeks actually never called the Games. They used a Greek word meaning "battle" as well as "contest."

Whatever the term used, those ancient combat sports drew tens of thousands of spectators from such far-flung corners of the Hellenic world as the regions known today as Spain and Russia. Every four years at the height of summer, masses of spectators and athletes would make their way to remote Olympia, Greece, far from any major city.

There, with almost no waste facilities or shelter from the torrid Mediterranean heat, fans would watch athletes vying in competitions that were shockingly brutal (one wrestler of record won two Olympic crowns by breaking the fingers of his rivals).

Winning was everything, historians stress. The victor would become a demigod on the spot, while the losers, often maimed beyond recognition, had to slink home via back routes to escape public derision. An athlete was the winner, or he was nothing. There was no concept of personal best.

The event played out on fields near runaway filth comprised of waste from the crowds and the buzzing flies from the carcasses of animals slaughtered to the glory of Zeus, king of the gods. An ancient joke suggested that citizens kept their slaves in line by threatening to send them to Olympia if they misbehaved.

In the fifth century, a Christian edict banned the Games until the 19th century, when they were revived as a class-conscious and vaguely absurd playground for the aristocracy, only gradually opening up for the more pragmatic mix of athletes who make up the Games today.

It's also probably worth remarking that this PBS documentary acknowledges the important role nudity played as a celebration of the human ideal in the original, all-male Olympics. The athletes standing in for their ancient Greek counterparts in this TV production are about as bare as they dare, wearing only mini-thongs. Prudes and voyeurs alike, take note.

On a loftier note, an ancient Greek amphitheater serves as a stunning backdrop for "From the Acropolis: A Salute to the Games With the Berlin Philharmonic," a PBS "Great Performances" special airing Wednesday (check local listings).

Daniel Barenboim, music director of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and a former child prodigy, performs the moving and beloved Piano Concerto No. 1 by Johannes Brahms, accompanied by the Berlin musicians under the baton of Sir Simon Rattle.

Athens' Herodes Atticus Amphitheatre, designed in 160 A.D. on the south slope of the Acropolis, serves as the atmospheric venue for the performance, a musical salute to the 2004 Summer Olympics recorded May 1 at the opening of Greece's Hellenic Festival, a five-month arts celebration.

Chariot races were the most lethal event at the ancient Olympic competitions in Greece, but nearly all of the combat sports featured included some element of sickening mayhem in which winning was everything, according to "The Real Olympics," a two-part documentary premiering Tuesday and Wednesday on PBS.

Sports Feature

No bridge too far when Woods, Mickelson tee it up at 'Battle'

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

There are no walls in sight, the ball is stationary and the players are wielding a metal club instead of one made of wood. But if golf held an event the equivalent of baseball's Home Run Derby, the sixth annual "Battle at the Bridges" would be it.

"That's exactly right," says Mike Tirico, who hosts the prime-time exhibition live from The Bridges at Rancho Santa Fe in Southern California Monday, Aug. 2, on ABC, joined by analysts Fred Couples and Ian Baker-Finch and course reporter Andy North. "Whether it's golfers or non-golfers, there's an attraction to the guy who hits it ridiculously far, and that will add some appeal to the night."

This year's match features four of the game's longest hitters - Phil Mickelson and John Daly against Tiger Woods and Hank Kuehne - in the one-round, best-ball team duel. The winners split $1 million, with $200,000 going to each losing player. Kuehne, Daly and Woods are currently listed in the top 10 in driving distance on the PGA Tour, each clubbing in excess of 300 yards per drive. Last year, Kuehne set a tour record with an average of 321.4 yards off the tee.

Besides ABC, the common denominator in all six of the made-for-TV match plays has been Woods, the world's top-ranked player. "Without question, the draw is Tiger," Tirico says. "If Tiger didn't have the splash that he made starting back with the Masters back in '97, and continuing with his dominance in 2000 at the U.S. Open and British Open - he really became a golfer that transcended the sport just in terms of recognition for viewers. So, without somebody like that, I don't think you have an anchor to work around."

For the second consecutive year, the battle will be contested on the par-71 Bridges, located about 25 miles north of San Diego. Deep canyons, meandering creeks and scenic lakes are fixtures on the course, one that Tirico thinks isn't necessarily major caliber, but "is it a very good test for these guys?" he says. "Absolutely."

It's also the home course for San Diego native Mickelson, who along with Sergio Garcia defeated the team of Ernie Els and Woods in the 2003 event.

"I think it helped last year the fact that Phil knew the golf course a little bit," Tirico says. "It's not a lot of rocket science, but the little nuances always do give you a little comfort zone, and I think anytime you're in a competitive situation, the less you have to think about, the less you're not sure about, the better you are. So I think it certainly will help Mickelson. I won't say it makes him the favorite, but I think it certainly gives his team a little bit of an edge."

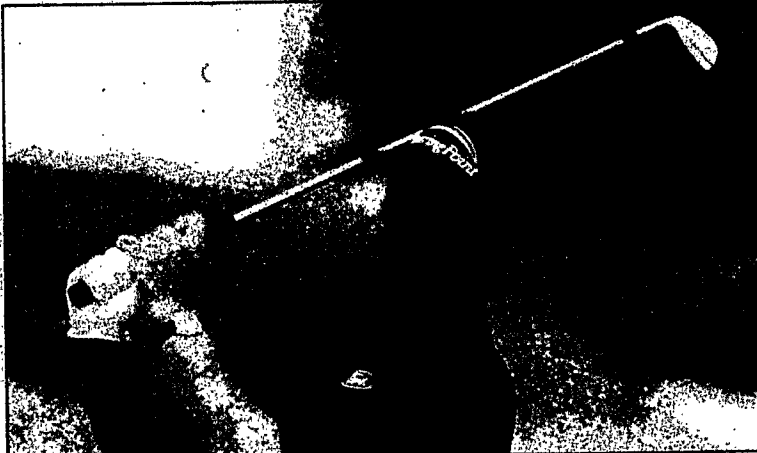

Viewers at home will have an advantage, as well, as all four players will be wearing microphones. "I think that adds, especially with John Daly and Mickelson, they are very adept at conversations with each other during these events," Tirico says. "Phil's done the Skins Game the last few years, John's done it over the years, and so has Tiger, so those guys understand that they're there to entertain in addition to play, so their conversations with each other become of some interest as you go along."

But when it's time to crush a drive in the fairway or line up a crucial putt, don't expect too much banter, Tirico cautions. "What I've noticed in these things, everybody talks about, 'Well, they should talk more, this or that.' These guys, they're professionally proud and extraordinarily competitive. So nobody wants to be outdone, and that means the chatter may not be what the viewers would love, but I think in a situation where these guys can all hit it far, there will be a lot of, I guess, peer pressure to not be the shortest or the crookedest of the four as the night goes on."

Especially when it comes to the benevolent portion of the evening. A total of $300,000 will be marked for charity Monday night, $50,000 on each of six designated long-driving holes. The team that hits it the farthest and keeps it in the fairway earns $25,000 for each member's chosen charity.

Helping others, Tirico says, is, ahem, par for the course for golf. "The one thing about being around golf and covering the NBA, covering the NFL and college football and basketball over my, gosh, I think it's 13 years now at ESPN and ABC, golf does more for charity than any other sport by a long, long margin. It's a given with the profession for so many of these guys."

"NASCAR Racing" Sunday, Aug. 1 (TNT, 1:30 p.m. ET): Ryan Newman and his team threw caution to the wind last year at Pocono Raceway in the Pennsylvania 500. Grabbing the lead after a pit stop under caution on lap 154, Newman and crew chief Matt Borland decided to stretch his fuel the rest of the way, a strategy that paid off thanks to 14 more gas-saving caution laps the rest of the way. Newman barely held off a gaining Kurt Busch for the win, and he returns to Long Pond, Pa., today to defend his title.

"PGA Golf" Thursday, Aug. 5 (USA Network, 4 p.m. ET): Adding to your score is the object in The International, and Davis Love III did it better than anyone last year, leading wire-to-wire for his 18th career title. Love, with 46 points under the modified Stableford scoring system, beat Vijay Singh and Retief Goosen by a tournament-record 12. He defends his title from Castle Pines Golf Club in Castle Rock, Colo., against a field that includes former International winners Ernie Els and Rich Beem.

"Women's Basketball" Thursday, Aug. 5 (ESPN, 7 p.m. ET): After just two days of practice as an organized unit, the U.S. women's Olympic team faces a team of WNBA all-stars live from Radio City Music Hall in New York. The game precedes the team heading to a European tournament for its final tune-up before trying to fend off the likes of Russia and Australia in Athens for its third straight gold medal. Three-time Olympian Lisa Leslie leads the team, joined by Sheryl Swoopes and Diana Taurasi, among others.

Monday

7 a.m. and TBS

Movie: Fly Away Home

After her mother dies, 13-year-old Amy (Oscar winner Anna Paquin, "The Piano") goes to live with her father (Jeff Daniels), an annoyingly eccentric inventor. Amy feels isolated and miserable until she discovers an orphaned flock of baby geese and adopts them. A truly beautiful, saccharine-free children's story of grief and renewal, this 1996 drama is a wonderful alternative to Hollywood's usual pastel heroes and their talking knickknack friends.

Wednesday

6 a.m. on HBO

Movie: Rudyard Kipling's The Jungle Book

Jason Scott Lee stars in this live-action adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's tale of Mowgli, a boy raised in the jungle by a pack of wolves. Lena Headey stars as Kitty Brydon, a British officer's daughter who finds Mowgli and brings him to civilization. When Kitty is kidnapped by a greedy officer (Cary Elwes), Mowgli turns to his animal friends for help.

11:45 a.m. on HBO

Movie: Wild America

In 1967, armed with a movie camera and a dream, three brothers cross the country getting up close to alligators, bears and other critters. Scott Bairstow ("Party of Five") stars as eldest brother Marty Stouffer, who grew up to host the long-running PBS series "Wild America." Devon Sawa ("Casper") plays middle sib Mark, who is one of the film's producers. Jonathan Taylor Thomas ("Home Improvement") plays the youngest, Marshall, who narrates the movie.

Thursday

6:30 a.m. on HBO

Movie: The Nightmare Before Christmas

And you thought it was disconcerting to see Christmas decorations in the stores at Halloween! This surreal 1993 animated fantasy from Tim Burton ("Edward Scissorhands") takes the overlapping holiday scenario to the extreme: The Pumpkin King, ruler of Halloween Town, hatches a plan to kidnap Santa Claus and put his own ghostly spin on the yuletide season. Danny Elfman, Chris Sarandon and Catherine O'Hara supply the voices.

Friday

8 p.m. on 49-PAX

Movie: True Heart

In this 1987 adventure film written and directed by Catherine Cyran, Kirsten Dunst ("Spider-Man") and Zachery Ty Bryan ("Home Improvement") play Bonnie and Sam, siblings who are on their way home to their mother and stepfather when their plane crashes in British Columbia. Left on their own, they meet a local man (August Schellenberg) with his companion — a Kodiak bear — and evil poachers.

All the days of Alison Sweeney's life

By Paulette Cohn

© Zap2it

It takes a lot of chutzpah to write your autobiography when you are only 27 years old, but that is just what "Days of Our Lives" star Alison Sweeney (Sami Brady) has done. The title, "All the Days of My Life (So Far)," is tongue in cheek, but the message she imparts is very real.

Sweeney has struggled with her weight and issues of self-esteem ever since she joined the daytime drama in 1993. But unlike a lot of young women, she didn't develop an eating disorder; she found a new, healthy way of eating.

"I preface my advice by saying I am not really giving advice," she explains. "Rather, the advice I give is in the form of stories I tell about my own life. For example, when I was a kid, my mom used to say not to be upset that the popular girls were mean to me at school. She said, 'Everybody finds their own way and when you're an adult, you're going to look back at this and laugh.'"

Typical kid that she was, Sweeney didn't want to listen to what her mom had to say. But as she grew older, she realized mother knew best. The actress decided that maybe her fans might listen if they knew she went through the same things that they do.

The proof is in her fan mail. "One letter made me cry," Sweeney shares. "She told me she could confide in me about how she was picked on at school and how she had a weight struggle. Hearing someone who has a glamorous job say she had low self-esteem made it easy for her to relate to."

Dear Paulette: On "General Hospital," did the girl who stars as Sam play Robin years back? And what was her boyfriend's name, the one who died of AIDS? Thank you. - Peggy, Waterloo, N.Y.

Dear Reader: Kelly Monaco is the actress who plays Samantha McCall. She began the role in October 2003. Kimberly McCullough portrayed Robin Scorpio. Her boyfriend's name was Stone Gates; played by Michael Sutton.

Gilmore Girls

The death of the family matriarch (guest star Marion Ross) impacts the other relatives in various ways in "The Reigning Lorelai." Richard (Edward Herrmann) is devastated, so Emily (Kelly Bishop) takes care of arranging the funeral — and finds a letter that leaves her stunned. Lorelai (Lauren Graham) then assumes the funeral plans, although her emotions also prove shaky.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS

Nova

The disappearance of a U.S. Navy plane that vanished over the Bering Sea in 1944 — and remained missing for 55 years — is probed in "Last Flight of Bomber 31." The wreckage of the plane, which carried a seven-man crew, was shown in photographs to be perched on the side of a volcano in eastern Siberia. U.S. investigators were left in Russia to determine what happened to the bomber and those on board.

8 p.m. on 36-WB

Summerland

Ava's (Lori Loughlin) date with the principal (guest star Jay Harrington) of Nikki's (Kay Panabaker) school forces Johnny (Shawn Christian) to acknowledge his true feelings toward Ava in the new episode "Life in the Fishbowl." Sarah's (guest star Sara Paxton) reappearance clouds Bradlin's (Jesse McCartney) intention of fully pursuing a romance with Callie (guest star Danielle Savre).

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

The Real Olympics

Before this year's edition of the modern Games begins, this new miniseries recalls the roots of the international athletic competition. Part 1, "Death or Glory," focuses on modifications that have been made over the ages to the competitive concept devised by the Greeks nearly 12 centuries ago. The Victorians of England and the Nazis of Germany are among factions that have left their marks on the Olympiad. Part 2 airs Wednesday.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

The Player

Her name is Dawn, and she has no shortage of would-be suitors — or players — in the parlance of this unscripted series set in Miami. The show debuts with a format similar to last summer's "Cupid," as model Dawn's girlfriends get to weigh in on the 13 men vying for her affection. The guys compete in various challenges and use all their wiles on her, hoping not to be the next person eliminated.

8:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Less Than Perfect

Claude (Sara Rue) doesn't know what to think when Will (Eric Roberts) makes her best friend his new right-hand woman — despite the new hire's thorough lack of experience for the job — in "Claude's Roxanne." Initially uneasy about the position the situation places her in, Claude becomes downright unhappy about it before much time passes. Tori Spelling guest stars.

NYPD 24/7

The Dennis Franz-narrated documentary series about the New York Police Department concludes its season with "Hour Seven," showing how officers deal with the city's populace during a heightened alert. A suspicious package at a crowded intersection sets off anxieties. Two detectives in the Special Victims Unit use DNA evidence to catch a suspect in a rape committed 10 years earlier.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Stabler and Benson (Christopher Meloni, Mariska Hargitay) investigate a woman after she is discovered bound and almost suffocated — and possibly raped — in her bed in "Painless." She then commits suicide while being treated in a hospital emergency room, prompting the police detectives to wonder about her apparent link to a physician (guest star Marlee Matlin).

9 p.m. on 19-PBS

P.O.V.

The series "Six Feet Under" fictionalizes it, but the new episode "A Family Undertaking" examines what the mortuary business has experienced in recent years. Some people have foregone the funeral-home route to stage final rites on their own terms, and such instances are on the rise. Individuals who have taken that route offer comments, as do morticians concerned about the state of their profession.

Wednesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 6-NBC Next Action Star

The promise was that the male and female winners would get to star in a movie, and producer Josef Silver lives up to his word by casting them in "Bet Your Life," the new two-hour film resulting from the unscripted series. In the tradition of Silver's "Die Hard" and "Lethal Weapon," the action tale makes an ex-quarterback the target of a female bounty hunter — and also of a gambler (Billy Zane, "Titanic") who makes a deadly wager.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS Secrets of the Dead

Think "Xena" or "Red Sonja," but don't stop there. The new episode "Amazon Warrior Women" explores whether stories of female fighters during the Trojan War are fact or myth. Recently discovered evidence, including women's remains situated near clothing and weapons of the period, is used to determine the truth. Forensics investigators apply modern DNA tests to the material findings.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX The Simple Life 2: Road Trip

It's the end of the road, and the road trip, for socialite pals Paris Hilton and Nicole Richie as they drive their trailer into their usual stomping grounds — Beverly Hills — in the unscripted show's season finale. Whether they have gleaned any life-changing lessons in traveling cross-country is likely to remain an open question, but they certainly have gotten to sample how the other half lives along their route.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC The Drew Carey Show

In "Drew Hunts Silver Fox," Drew's (Drew Carey) focus is his mother's (guest star, Marion Ross) love life — or, more accurately, the lack thereof. He wants to fix her up with the same man (guest star Mitchell Ryan, "Dharma & Greg") being eyed by Oswald (Diedrich Bader) for his own mom (guest star Adrienne Barbeau, "Carnivale").

8 p.m. on 19-PBS The Real Olympics

The new miniseries concludes with "Playing to Win," which demonstrates how certain elements of the modern Olympic Games can be linked directly to the ancient version first established by the Greeks. Dramatic re-creations involving actual athletes help illustrate the similarities. Brian Greene is the narrator.

8 p.m. and DSC Oakland Bay Bridge

As if constructing an enormous suspension bridge wasn't enough of a challenge, try making it earthquake-proof at the same time. The California expanse between San Francisco and Oakland certainly has felt its share of tremors — particularly during the 1989 quake that struck during a World Series game. This new special examines how designers and engineers are trying to accomplish all that the Bay Bridge requires.

8 p.m. on TNT Movie: Set It Off

In this 1996 drama, Frankie (Vivica A. Fox) has been unjustly fired from her bank job. Stony (Jada Pinkett) has a brother who needs money for college. Tisean (Kimberly Elise) is a single mom whose child has been taken away. And Cleo (Queen Latifah) just wants to have funds. Together, these four struggling women hatch a plan to get the money they need to put their lives together. They'll become bank robbers.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC Law & Order

A friend who saw the murder of a small-time drug dealer seems to be the only hope. Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) have of solving the crime in "Can I Get a Witness?" The witness then is slain, leaving McCoy (Sam Waterston) determined to bring that person's killer to justice.

What I Like About You

Holly (Amanda Bynes) tries to support Vince (Nick Zano) when his grandfather dies in "Val and Holly's Not-Boyfriends." She's surprised by the way Nick responds to her show of compassion. Val (Jennie Garth) is drawn to ex-boyfriend Rick (guest star Ed Kerr) anew by his changed behavior after he almost dies.

7 p.m. on BRAV

Movie: Pulp Fiction

Director Quentin Tarantino's violent, much-praised drama was one of the most controversial movies of 1994. It boasts first-rate performances by John Travolta — whose career was resuscitated by the movie — and Samuel L. Jackson as hired killers who often debate life's larger issues. A parallel plot involves Bruce Willis as a corrupt boxer in trouble. Uma Thurman, Harvey Keitel, Tim Roth and Amanda Plummer co-star.

7 p.m. and TBS

Movie: Lara Croft: Tomb Raider

An impressively athletic Angelina Jolie becomes the human embodiment of the video-game heroine in this 2001 adventure. Croft's quest to recover artifacts pits her against a villain (Iain Glen) who wants to control time. She seeks a key that can help her quash that scheme. Jon Voight, Jolie's real-life father, co-stars as Croft's dad.

7 p.m. and TNT

Movie: Rambo III

This 1988 action movie makes it clear that one should never visit Afghanistan without having Sylvester Stallone along — since he's apparently capable of wiping out that country's military forces singlehanded. The last chapter of the "Rambo" franchise to date, the adventure saga finds the Vietnam veteran re-entering enemy territory to save his former commander (Richard Crenna).

7:30 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

8 Simple Rules

In the opener of a two-part tale, "Let's Keep Going," Bridget and Kerry (Kaley Cuoco, Amy Davidson) are on their way to their grandmother's house when they spot Cate (Katey Sagal) at their dad's favorite watering hole with a stranger. Back home, Rory (Martin Spanjer) takes an interest in one of Kerry's friends (Nicole Mansour) ... and vice versa, much to Kerry's horror.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

JAG

"What If?" is a fanciful story that poses what might have happened if the regular characters had followed different paths. One of the subplots is a payoff of sorts for longtime fans of the show, since Harm and Mac's (David James Elliott, Catherine Bell) shared fantasy shows them as a married couple — but their wedded life wouldn't necessarily run smoothly.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Miss Teen USA 2004

It's time for another beauty queen to be crowned as the latest edition of the annual event is televised. The ritual is much the same as the Miss USA and Miss Universe competitions, with the emotions likely to be just as strong as the nation-spanning field of contenders is whittled down to a much smaller group — and then down to just two. # Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: Mystic Pizza

Before she was bonding in a hair salon with the women of "Steel Magnolias," Julia Roberts was serving it up in a pizzeria full of — you guessed it — women. She stars as Daisy, a talented young woman with big dreams who is dating a rich man. Daisy's fellow waitresses are having romantic problems, and the restaurant owner is facing a financial crisis. Annabeth Gish, Lili Taylor and Conchata Ferrell co-star in this 1988 comedy-drama.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: The Replacements

Organized-labor supporters may not like the way this 2000 comedy paints scabs — workers hired to replace strikers — as good guys. But the strikers here are spoiled, overpaid pro football players, and the replacements are regular guys who finally get a break. The new coach's (Gene Hackman) hires include an over-the-top cop (Jon Favreau), a chain-smoking Welshman (Rhys Ifans) and a once-promising college player (Keanu Reeves).

7 p.m. and AMC

Movie: Joe Kidd

One of Clint Eastwood's best post-"Man With No Name" Westerns, this 1972 saga finds literal troubleshooter Kidd (Eastwood), hired by a tycoon named Frank Harlan (Robert Duvall). The gunman's mission is to rid the Harlan's area of some allegedly unsavory neighbors, until he learns his employer is the real villain. That leads to his rather creative use of a train in retaliation. John Saxon also appears.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Seabiscuit

The true legend of a Depression-era race horse that defied all odds is retold lovingly in this stirring 2003 drama adapted from the Laura Hillenbrand best seller. Tobey Maguire plays Red Pollard, a former prizefighter who becomes an unlikely jockey — in the same sense that Seabiscuit is a long shot to become a champion. Jeff Bridges and Chris Cooper are excellent in their respective roles as the horse's owner and trainer.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

An assistant district attorney is strangled in an area known for prostitution in "Lowdown." Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) initially suspect the murder is linked to one of the victim's cases, but the results of a DNA test suggest another reason for the killing.

9 p.m. on DSC

D.B. Cooper

Something of a folk hero for the way he pulled off his crime, Cooper stepped out of an airborne passenger jet — wearing a business suit and a parachute — in November 1971 and vanished with $200,000. The questions that have remained unanswered ever since are addressed by this new special, which applies modern forensic techniques in trying to determine how Cooper disappeared literally without a trace.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"13 GOING ON 30": A familiar premise - the one about a youngster turning into an adult overnight - gets an enjoyable refresher in this comedy, thanks in large part to a very appealing performance by Jennifer Garner ("Alias"). A birthday party gone bad makes the girl wish to be older immediately. When that happens, she tries to reconcile her life as a magazine editor with her adolescent heart and soul. Mark Ruffalo plays the grown version of her childhood best friend, with Judy Greer as a continuing nemesis from their school days. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentaries by director Gary Winick and producers Susan Arnold, Donna Roth and Gina Matthews; "making-of" documentary, "I Was a Teenage Geek" and "Then and Now" featurettes; "The '80s Outfit Challenge" interactive feature; deleted scenes; outtakes; music videos; photo gallery. *** (PG-13: AS, P)

"HIDALGO": An extremely visual adventure from director Joe Johnston ("Jumanji"), this sweeping, fact-inspired saga stars Viggo Mortensen ("The Lord of the Rings" trilogy) as the lone American entrant in the Ocean of Fire, a long-distance 19th-century horse race across the Arabian desert. The grueling competition poses many physical challenges, but it also prompts a spiritual reawakening within

"KNIGHT RIDER: SEASON ONE": The story goes that then-NBC programming chief Brandon Tartikoff encountered David Hasselhoff on an airplane. Thus was the actor cast in this 1990s popular adventure series about a severely wounded policeman rehabilitated into Michael Knight, a fighter of wrongs working for a private foundation. His sidekick? One of the most popular vehicles in TV history: the talking, independent-minded car named K.I.T.T. (with the voice of actor William Daniels). Edward Mulhare also stars as the man who gives Michael his missions in this four-disc DVD set. DVD extras: audio commentary on pilot episode by Hasselhoff and executive producer Glen Larson; "Knight Rider 2000" TV movie. *** (Not rated: AS, P)

"SLIDERS: SEASONS 1 & 2": This clever 1990s fantasy series, which began its TV life on Fox and comes to DVD in a six-disc set, sends a diverse group of people "sliding" through a wormhole that takes them to alternate universes - all of which look like San Francisco, the starting point of their unexpected journey. Jerry O'Connell ("Crossing Jordan") plays the young inventor whose experiment causes the unexpected trek, shared with him by characters portrayed by Sabrina Lloyd ("Sports Night"), John Rhys-Davies and Cleavant Derricks. DVD extras: audio commentary on pilot episode by series creator-producers Tracy Torme and Robert K. Weiss; interview with O'Connell. *** (Not rated: AS, P, V)

"IST-TO-DIE": The suspenseful best seller by James Patterson ("Kiss the Girls") became an intense 2003 NBC

TV movie starring Tracy Pollan as a police detective probing the murder of a young couple on their wedding night. Teamed with a cop (Gil Bellows, "Ally McBeal") with whom she had a one-night stand, she seeks help from other professional women (Pam Grier, Carly Pope, Megan Gallagher) in finding the killer, Robert Patrick ("The X-Files"), also stars. *** (R: AS, P, V)

"SIGNIFICANT OTHERS: THE SERIES": "Alias" still was a few TV seasons away for Jennifer Garner when she was among the stars of this regrettably short-lived Fox drama, developed by "Party of Five" producers Amy Lippman and Christopher Keyser. Campbell (played by Elon Bailey) is a sensitive fellow whose world seems to be coming apart; his dilemma isn't helped by the discovery that his best friends (Scott Bairstow, Garner) have been carrying on a secret romance. Elizabeth Mitchell ("ER") and Michael Weatherly ("Navy NCIS") also are featured. *** (Not rated: AS, P)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"JOHNSON FAMILY VACATION" (Aug. 10): Cedric the Entertainer plays the patriarch of a clan whose getaway runs into complications at virtually every turn. Lil' Bow Wow also stars. (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"THE PRINCE & ME" (Aug. 10): A driven student (Julia Stiles) is unimpressed initially with a seemingly lazy classmate (Luke Mably) who, unbeknownst to her, is a member of Danish royalty. (PG: AS, P)

"CONNIE AND CARLA" (Aug. 17): Nia Vardalos - also the film's writer - and Toni Collette play friends who pose as male-posing-as-female performers. (PG-13: AS, P, V)

On TV

Billy Crystal's daughter offers a portrait of another relative

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Lindsay Crystal has gone into the family business, and her father - Billy Crystal - couldn't be prouder.

A graduate of New York University's film school, she worked with her actor-comedian-filmmaker dad on his movies "61" and "My Giant," but she literally called the shots in directing and editing a 90-minute documentary about her great-uncle. Debuting Thursday, Aug. 5, on HBO, "My Uncle Berns" profiles Bernhardt Crystal, whom Lindsay wanted to know better after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, when he and his wife resided in a New York nursing home one block away from the World Trade Center.

"Berns" who was 88 years old when the movie was shot, has had a colorful life marked early by dual tragedies: the deaths of his sister (which his mother held him accountable for) and his immigrant father. Inspired by an Indian poet, he externalized his thoughts through sketches that eventually led him to become a World War II combat artist. After the war, he opened the Washington Irving Gallery in New York and operated it for a half-century while keeping his family ties strong. Berns was a near-mythic figure to Lindsay through her father's stories until she decided to acquaint herself and, via her film, others with him much more directly.

"Going into this, I really had no idea what to expect," Lindsay maintains. "I thought it might be a 15-minute film I'd show to my family at Thanksgiving, but I just got so attached to telling the story and to finding out more about (Berns). Because we developed such a close friendship during the making of the movie, it was a wonderful experience all around."

It's also had a significant impact on Billy Crystal, the documentary's executive producer (along with his wife, Janice). He says he was moved to watch Berns and Lindsay's relationship grow, seeing this young woman being embraced by him - a surrogate father to me all these years - and watching her appreciate him. The movie is almost gravy at that point, but the film is everything I could have imagined I wanted it to be when we started talking about it."

Having such a personal attachment to the subject made "My Uncle Berns" that much more profound, and that much more of a responsibility, for Lindsay as she watched the material over and over again in the editing room. "There were many moments when he forgot the cameras were rolling, so I really got to see a very intimate part of him, and he trusted me with showing that. Going through more than 100 hours of footage, it was like, 'What do I cut? I love it all.'"

"I definitely felt a great deal of pressure to portray him as he is, and to not be exploitive. I just wanted to be honest, and because he recognized that intention, I think he was willing to be so open with me."

Lindsay reports that the first time Berns saw the movie, "He didn't expect what it was. He knew that we'd been doing interviews and I'd asked him to do some drawings, but I don't think he ever expected the scope of it. I think he was shocked and overwhelmed the first time he watched it. I spent that whole screening watching him, not the movie."

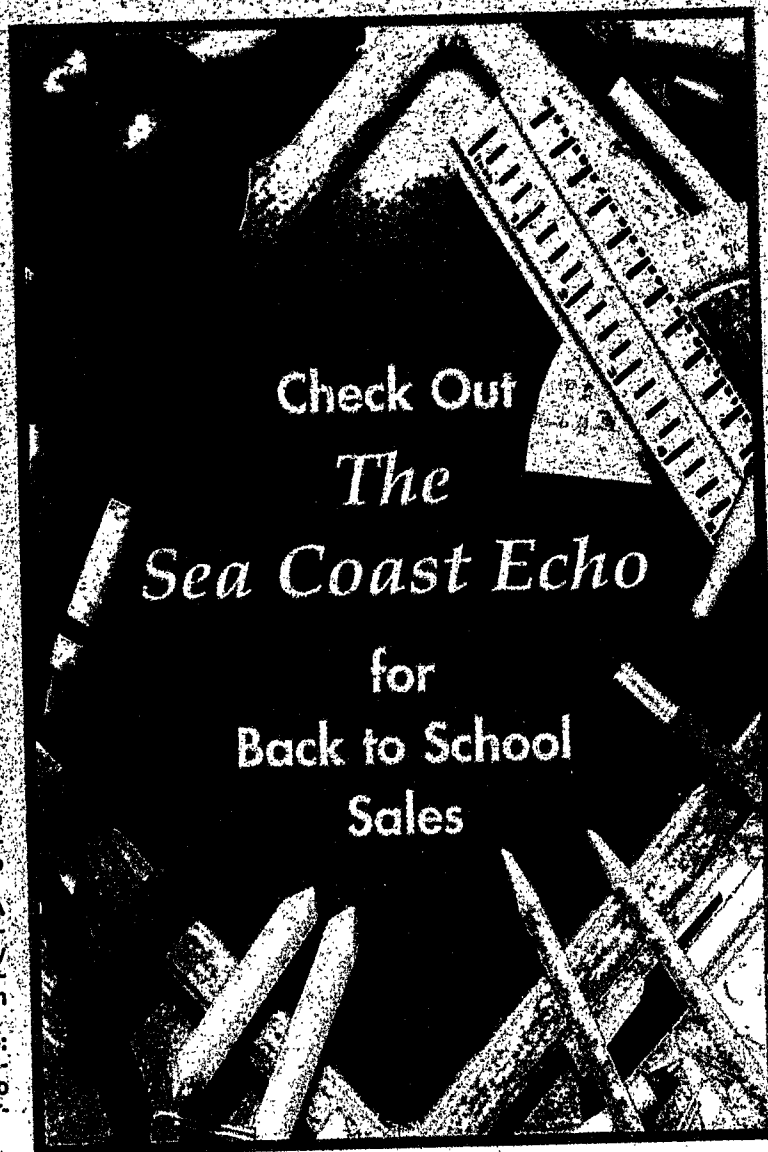

So did her dad, who had thought of making such a film himself over the years. He confirms that Berns "loves to be a celebrity. He does have that in him big-time, but I don't think he understood the magnitude of what this was going to become. Watching him at the first screening was much like when I took Lindsay to her first movie. You don't watch the screen; you watch them watch the movie, and I could hear the effort he was making to contain himself. It took enormous power for him to hold it all in when he saw his own story playing out like an epic."

An assistant editor on "61," Lindsay also spent time on her father's movie sets by playing his daughter in the two "City Slickers" comedies and a "screaming girl" (the official name of her role) in "Mr. Saturday Night." While she learned some moviemaking pointers then, her dad is quick to stress, "Making a documentary is totally different from anything else, especially when it's so personal and when you're not quite sure what the story is when you're in the middle of filming. When Lindsay was little, we'd watch a lot of movies together, and I'd point out certain shots: 'That's the master,' 'That's the wide shot,' etc. The basic geography of film stays the same, and she always grasped that."

"A documentary keeps growing and emerging while you're making it," Billy adds. "Lindsay would send me footage and say, 'I don't know what I have here. What do you think?' I'd see the story of a man telling his great-niece these very powerful stories, some of which I didn't know all the details of, or know at all - and I'm pretty much his closest confidant. Watching that was pretty tremendous, and her instincts were great. I loved just being a sounding board for her sometimes."

Lindsay Crystal profiles her great-uncle, Bernhardt Crystal (center), in the new documentary "My Uncle Berns" Thursday on HBO. Lindsay's father, Billy (right), is the film's executive producer.
